

Gettysburg.

Four of our Masonic brethren attended the Grand Lodge meeting held at Springfield last week. They report having had an interesting and profitable time, all things considered.

P. B. Moul is enjoying a season of relaxation from postoffice duties visiting his family at Columbus, to return about mid-week to take up his duties again.

George W. Mannix and George Sigafos appeared among us last Wednesday night in advocacy of the Second Liberty Loan, from which a large support may be expected. By all means, give the money and save our boys from going to bring about the end of the war. The investment is good, and the purpose is right and patriotic. It is reported that few exemptions are granted in appeals to the President for relief from military service.

Mrs. M. A. Pickett is making an extended visit among relatives at Troy.

David Swank, with his family, moved to this place last week from Greenville.

Miss Eva Kniesly is in a Dayton hospital, where she underwent an operation for various ills, and is reported on the way to recovery.

Mrs. Orrin Boyer, whose home was a couple of miles north of here, died yesterday, after a long illness of tuberculosis.

The remains of Jacob Laughman were given burial in our cemetery yesterday afternoon. He was the victim of an auto accident, occurring a short distance east of Greenville on the Gettysburg pike last Thursday night.

It is reported that several fellows of this place went to the city last Thursday afternoon, using two autos for the purpose. The exact number going is unknown to the writer, and upon return both autos shared the same fate, both turned turtle, with the result of killing Mr. Laughman, the others receiving only slight wounds or scratches. Lucky that the sequel was no worse for those escaping death.

The coroner's inquest indicates that the occupants of the auto in which Mr. Laughman rode had made free use of booze, which condition was responsible for the accident. It seems some people do not know that "John Barleycorn" is a bad associate in a crowd of men and autos; seemingly they do not know there is danger under such circumstances, nor that a drunken person is not a safe person to drive an auto and that their doing so is a finable offense and works a forfeiture of license to run an auto. It is time that there be an awakening on this subject, that they endanger their own lives is bad enough, but when they endanger the lives of their auto occupants and every person who may meet or pass them it is time to clean the road of such nuisances.

Jacob Seman was arrested and charged with manslaughter for his part in this case, but it should not stop there. Everybody ought to learn that "John Barleycorn" is an evil companion, when autoing or, in fact, for any calling in life. This ought to be a good argument to aid the dry cause, but how many votes will it make for dry Ohio? None, probably. Everybody inclined that way will vote for the saloon, no matter what its devastations may be or what the public may suffer on account of it.

Some person placed a sign at the center of one of our cross streets reading "Turn to the right," to direct the owners of vehicles in passing along. This is proper and right, but there is another application, and that is, in all of our business or social relations we ought always to turn to the right, which, if done, would give everyone his rights.

Every Little Bit Helps.

The great majority of us who purchase liberty bonds will not have to worry about the surtax. Many of us may have some unbusiness as the several periods of installment payments approach. We may have to do some tall hustling to scrape together enough ready coin to meet them. But it will be a profitable experience in the end. It will teach us ways of thrift. And these are lessons which we sadly need.

America's greatest weakness is prodigality with the strictly personal touch.

These are days of big things and tremendous accomplishments. They are "get rich quick" days such as America has never known before. And the whole social fabric is imbued with the spirit. Turn whichever way you may and you feel its prick. Every time you put your hand into your pocket you pay tribute to it.

And the predominant impulse is to try your darndest to hold up your end.

But it isn't wise to surrender entirely to this influence. Don't go to the excess of despising the day of little things. For in most instances the little things count immensely in the aggregate. And especially is this so in this matter of liberty bonds.

There were something more than four million subscriptions in the initial bond drive. This means that the great majority of them were for small amounts, largely the minimum. And in this drive as well the small purchaser will be an all important factor.

Don't stay away from the bond counter because you cannot afford to buy in the three or four figure class. You will probably make a greater sacrifice in buying a fifty dollar bond than will many a man who buys one for $50,000.

Every little bit helps. Remember this.

Make it a hundred if you can. But fifty will do.

Brief Items.

Potatoes, Irish and sweet, should be used freely when plentiful, because they are useful vegetables for many purposes. They can be grown in almost all sections of the country, and hence need not be transported long distances; and, furthermore, since they contain much starch, or its equivalent, they may take the place of grains, which bear shipment better and are less bulky.

The rough part of grains has two important uses. It contains mineral and other substances which are useful in keeping the body healthy; it adds bulk to the food, and so helps along normal digestion.

When hogs are pasturing on a forage crop, restrict the area so that they will eat it off rapidly.

The brood sow and her litter should have plenty of exercise, but the pigs should be protected from cold rains.

One rat will eat or spoil 4 bushels of grain a year. It costs $2 or $3 a year to feed a rat on your place.

Plowing kills wireworms by destroying their food supply and interfering with their preparations for winter.

Make your patriotism good by a bond.

Liberty Bonds will help get your crops to the world markets.

When the cost of the proposed addition to the military establishment is before the people the question of cost per capita of the army will be discussed. On examination it may be found to be greater than in some countries in Europe. We pay the private soldier more than double, perhaps, of the pay of soldiers in the best paid army over there. The subordinate officers are better paid than the men who hold equivalent ranks abroad. Here the captains and lieutenants are taken from among the young men who depend on their earnings for a living. Their pay is fixed to include family expenses. Abroad the rule is to give commissions to those who have private incomes. We support more officers per hundred men than they do in Europe on the theory that there should be really a surplus of officers of the lower ranks, in order that they shall be trained for service in the new organizations which will be called out in time of war.

The Doubled Barrelled Gun

FARMER WILL NOT FARMER WINNER FAIL THE NATION OF ALL OUR WARS

FORMER CONGRESSMAN ALLEN BELIEVES IN PATRIOTIC SERVICE. PRESIDENT DABNEY PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO FOOD PRODUCERS.

WAS RAISED ON THE FARM HAS NEW CALL TO SERVICE

Tillers of Soil Fought the Revolutionary War and Will Do Their Share Now by Buying Liberty Bonds to Crush Autocracy.

Prosperity Has Come to Tillers of Soil and America Asks for Loan of Share of Money Received for Abundant Crops.

Former Congressman Alfred G. Allen, who lived on a farm near Wilmington until he was 21 years old, believes the farmer will buy his share of Liberty Bonds. Mr. Allen's father, I. B. Allen, was a successful Ohio farmer and served three years in the war of the Rebellion, attaining the rank of Captain of Company C, Seventy-ninth Ohio Volunteer Infantry. In an appeal to the farmer Mr. Allen said yesterday:

"For over one hundred years America occupied a place of splendid isolation, broad seas on either hand. But with the advent of the wireless, the aeroplane and the submarine, those broad seas ceased to be a source of protection. So that today our eastern border is right along the western firing line in France.

"We want to stop the conflagration at that point and not have our towns and fertile fields desolated by the ravages of a conquering army.

"Our brave boys have gone to the front, they have offered their all. It is up to us at home to support them to put every cent we can command into Liberty Bonds. It means $120 a year until the end of the war for every man, woman and child. There are millions unable to provide $120 a year, so the rest must subscribe to the very utmost.

"We are in this war because of the wanton and ruthless destruction of American life and property. If the United States had acquiesced in the Kaiser's order that our ships stay off the seas, three billion five hundred million dollars of American commerce with Europe, a large part of it the products of our farms, would have been cut off and with that single edict the Kaiser would have accomplished greater destruction on our farms and in our workshops than he could with his marching armies.

"The farmers now have and for many years after peace is concluded will have a ready market for everything they can produce. Whatever money they can now spare even to the point of sacrifice should be invested in Liberty Bonds. They are absolutely safe, as safe as the money in your pocket.

"The youth of a nation have been conscripted, the industries of the nation have been heavily taxed, but the farmers have not as yet been heavily burdened. Their products are the very necessities of life and it is inadvisable to heavily tax them. They have received good prices for their crops and are entitled to special exemption from service.

"Patriotic service is measured by the amount of sacrifice involved. The greater the sacrifice the greater the degree of patriotism. In time of war it is the duty of every patriotic citizen to make some sacrifice to serve his country. The farmers have always in the past shown their patriotism. As the continental farmers who proved their patriotism by fighting in the Revolutionary War, so will the American farmer of today show his patriotism by purchasing Liberty Bonds."

President Chas. W. Dabney, of the University of Cincinnati, says of the Liberty Loan:

"When we say that the American farmer will win this war, it is a producer of food that we are thinking of him. The farmer is not only our largest wealth-producer, but at this time, owing to the peculiar conditions under which we are fighting, he alone is able to produce and deliver in the required quantities that which we and our allies need most—food for our armies and industrial workers. To this call the American farmer has responded nobly. Under difficult conditions he has produced this year more potatoes, oats and corn than ever before. That the wheat crop is short is due to the unusually bad weather in the winter and spring.

"In spite of the advance in wages and the price of everything he buys—that is, after allowing for the shrinkage dollar—the farmer has made good money in the last two years, and has a larger bank account than ever before. It has been estimated that his balance is greater than the entire Liberty Loan.

"Now a new call comes to the American farmer. It is the call to support his country with his money as well as with his crops. To this call he will respond as nobly as to the other.

"In a far larger sense than that referred to above, the American farmer has fought and won every one of our wars. He produced all the food and the largest part of the money with which we fought them, but he did much more than this—he fought our wars himself with his own body. All our armies have been armies of farmers. The farmer boys constituted the rank and file of the Spanish War, as he did in the Civil War and the War of Independence. It is already evident that the farmer's boy will be in the majority on the firing line in this war.

"The American farmer always has been intensely patriotic. He may not rush to arms so quickly or do as much shooting as others, but he has always done more than his share of the actual fighting. He will do his part in this war.

"The farmer's boy has now joined the colors, and the nation calls on his father to help equip, train and support him while he fights for his country. The better we do this the safer it will be for the boy and the sooner peace will come.

"The ten million farmers of America produce more than one-third of the wealth of the country. They can easily take one-third of this loan. If every farmer will take one hundred dollars in the three billion, the thing is done. If steps are taken to bring the matter to the attention of all the farmers of the country, they will do it."

Three Meals Cost $14,000.

Feeding 42,500 troops at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, three meals a day will cost the government $14,000, and in the preparation of the meal 131 tons of food will be used. Money is needed to buy food. That's why the government will soon ask you to buy Liberty Loan Bonds.
